LABOR DAY AT FAIR GROUNDS

Committee Plans Mammoth Celebration, With Races and Other Attractions.

At a meeting of the Labor Day executive committee, held last night, it was unanimously decided to hold the annual Labor Day celebration this year on Monday, September 6, at the Virginia State Fair Grounds, the committee giving out the statement that this would be the biggest celebration ever held under the auspices of the Central Trades and Labor Council. For some years the Labor Day celebrations were held at the Reservoir, with a parade through the streets in the morning. Last year the parade was omitted, and the celebration held at Lakeside Park. This year the committee desired a more accessible location, in order that a larger number of citizens might be present.

Arrangements will be made for ample street car service and for lighting the grounds at night, so that the celebration can be continued through the afternoon and evening for the enjoyment of those who cannot come out during the day.

The Labor Day committee has appointed a number of subcommittees, and these made their reports last night. High Constable William H. Wyatt, Jr., of the committee on grounds, reporting a satisfactory agreement by which the Fair Grounds had been secured. Arrangements were made for automobile races, amateur horse races and a large variety of other amusements for the afternoon and evening. The Labor Day committee will meet each week until all plans are perfected.

Workers Instead of Voters.
In the report of the meeting of the Jefferson Ward Manly Club held at Strane's Hall Saturday night, which was printed in The Times-Dispatch of Sunday, it was stated that when President Wood asked of those who would agree to vote for Judge Mann to stand, only ten men arose. This was an error, which resulted from the fact that the reporter of the paper who was in attendance misinterpreted the president, thinking that "vote" instead of "work" for Judge Mann. Upon the assurance of President Wood that he used the word "work" instead of "vote," the correction is cheerfully made.

Judgment Entered.
Judgment was entered yesterday in the Law and Equity Court in the suit of Arthur M. Field Company against Mrs. Judge W. C. Benet. The defendant failed to appear on summons, and judgment was entered on the full amount of the claim, $20.25, with interest and costs.

SURPRISED HIM
Doctor's Test of Food.

A doctor in Kansas experimented with his boy in a test of food and gives the particular results. The boy, a little son, a lad of four, had been ill with pneumonia and during his convalescence did not seem to care for any kind of food.

"I knew something of Grape-Nuts and its rather fascinating flavor and particularly of its nourishing and nerve-building powers, so I started the boy on Grape-Nuts and found from the first dish that he liked it.

"His mother gave it to him steadily and he began to improve at once. In less than a month he had gained about eight pounds and soon became as well and strong as we had never before about him.

"An old patient of mine, 73 years old, came down with a serious stomach trouble and before I was called had got so weak he could eat almost nothing, and was in a serious condition. He had tried almost every kind of food for the sick without avail.

"I immediately put him on Grape-Nuts with good, rich milk and just a little pinch of sugar. He exclaimed when I came next day, 'Why doctor, I never ate anything so good or that made me feel so much stronger.'

"I am pleased to say that he got well on Grape-Nuts, but he had to stick to it for two or three weeks, then he began to branch out a little with rice or an egg or two. He got entirely well in spite of his almost hopeless condition. He gained 22 pounds in two months, which at his age is remarkable.

"I could quote a list of cases where Grape-Nuts has worked wonders."

FIREMAN ANSWERS HIS LAST CALL

Lawrence C. Haake Dies After Long Illness.

Lawrence Christian Haake, for twenty-one years a valued member of the Richmond Fire Department, died last night at 9 o'clock at the Retreat for the Sick, after an illness extending over a period of seven or eight months. Mr. Haake was very well known in Richmond. Besides his activity in the Fire Department, he had been an active member of the City Democratic Committee and for the past few years much engaged in politics.

He had worked in many famous fires, and had been several times injured. He was hurt in the big fire at the Cedar Works fifteen years ago, and was later hurt in the fire which almost destroyed the Ballard House, now the home of the Associated Charities. His last fire was at the Gallego Mills, in which he was overcome by the smoke, and from which he had to be removed to a place of safety.

Mr. Haake was born in this city on March 25, 1855. He is survived by two children—Mrs. Sophie Matthews and Lawrence C. Haake, and by one brother, Captain J. V. Haake, of Chicago, one of the Richmond Fire Department. The funeral will be held at 4:30 o'clock tomorrow afternoon from the German Evangelical Lutheran Church, and interment will be in Shockoe Cemetery.

Going to Mexico.
Harry M. Smith and Barney E. Myers, of this city, will sail for New York in a few days for Mexico, where they will spend a month in pleasure. Mr. Smith is a resident of New York to-day, and Mr. Myers, who is detained here as the result of an international leg engagement, will join him in the metropolis to-morrow. They expect to return to the city about September 1.

Vacation Season at Capitol.
Governor Swanson being at the White Sulphur Springs on his vacation, there were but few callers at the executive office yesterday. The month of August promises to be a very dull one in the various State departments, as most of the officers and their clerks will take advantage of the heated term to get a little rest.

Captain Hudson in Town.
Captain John R. Hudson, of Danville, a detective in the Virginia State Police, is in the city. He is remembered as the man who located the little Smith child in the Hines-Smith kidnapping case, which attracted attention some months ago. The child was stolen from a Richmond home and located by Hudson in South Boston.

Qualified to Practice Law.
R. C. Mayo qualified yesterday to practice law in the Law and Equity Court.

Trimmer-Blake.
A marriage license was issued yesterday to Samuel Trimmer and Mary Blake. Both are of Richmond.

RICHMOND STOCKED WITH OCEANS OF IMPORTED BOOZE

Fear of Higher Tariff Prompted Dealers to Buy Large Amounts for Storage, Though None Comes Nowadays, as Port Receipts Show.

There is not a wholesaler in town, perhaps, who would undertake to estimate in quarts and gallons exactly how much wine and liquor of the choicest kind are stored in the various cellars and warehouses of distributors for the present and future use of Richmond connoisseurs. That there is a great supply on hand—greater perhaps than at any previous time—they all know, and state the reason.

When Congress began debating the tariff bill, and there were rumors that the tariff on intoxicating beverages would likely take a big jump, the enterprising merchants of this city saw, or at least thought they saw, an opportunity of saving thousands of dollars by buying and buying quickly. Orders were rushed to Ireland, Scotland, France, Spain and Germany, and the result was that Port Richmond received enormous duties from this class of shipments.

Two months ago the consignments were received and housed, but since then not a drop of imported wine or whiskey has been entered on the lists at the local customs house, and Collector Stewart says there is little probability that there will be any orders sent in for many months to come.

HAS BIG FORTUNE HIDDEN IN HILLS

William Wallen, Convicted Once, Is Not Afraid to Face Another Jury.

GOES BACK TO-NIGHT
Aged Prisoner Will Not Speak of Wealth, but Gladly Relates Experiences.

In the hills of Wise county, near the headwaters of the Sandy River, William Wallen, who leaves Richmond to-night for Big Stone Gap, in charge of Deputy United States Marshal John A. Murphy, is said to have enormous wealth hidden. Of his earthly possessions, Wallen, who completed a year's sentence in the penitentiary last Friday, would say nothing when visited by a Times-Dispatch reporter yesterday.

Wallen, fifty-six years old, has a wife and family living about twenty miles from Big Stone Gap, but has not seen a relative or friend for more than a year. Eleven months of his sentence were spent in building roads near Staunton, Va., and of the hardships he alleges to have endured he speaks freely. He will be tried in the United States District Court for the Western District of Virginia for illicit distilling. Since Friday he has been kept in the Henrico jail.

A Victim of Malice.
Although not prepossessing in appearance, with closely cropped hair and the stare which seems to be the common heritage of convicted criminals, Wallen, for a backwoodsman, as he describes himself to be, is remarkably intelligent.

It is said that he kept shy of revenue officers for many years, and in this way amassed a fortune, which he handed down to his son, John. "I'm scarcely more than a shadow of the man I was when taken from my home and freeds to the penitentiary. Roadbuilding, with less food than I had been accustomed to, has told on me, and my health has given way under the strain. I am the victim of one man's malice. Not satisfied with having sent me to the Virginia prison, he now seeks to prove other crimes against me, and in case of conviction I realize that I am to face even greater torture than I have already endured."

Not Afraid to Return.
When The Times-Dispatch reporter entered the lower corridor of the Henrico county jail, and Keeper Snyder pointed to a man standing against the bars with his head sunk in his hands, and said: "That's the fellow you came to see," the prisoner looked up and said: "Are you William Wallen?" "Yes" (dejectedly). "You have served a year in the penitentiary?" "Yes, for a crime of which I was not guilty."

"Do you know that you are to be taken home to face another jury?" "I know it." "What is your crime?" "Whiskey, I reckon; I don't know of anything else." "Are you afraid?" "I am not. I would have gone straight home if they had not arrested me. I expect to be free again, unless the same man who sent me to the penitentiary can convince them against me again."

"Why were you sent to the penitentiary?" "I shot Wilson accidentally when we were all drunk. That was the grudge between us, and he helped to convince the jury, and they found me guilty. I got one year."

"Have you wealth hidden in the mountains?" "If I have, that's a secret. My wife and family have not starved since I have been away, and they would not need for anything if I stayed away from them forever."

Wallen was delighted with the news that he was to be taken to the scenes of his childhood to-night, and smiled as he added to his good-bay: "A few months will find me a free man again."

ENDS LIFE WITH ACID
Cornelius Blankenship, of Gayton, Henrico County, Found Dead.

Dependent, it is supposed, over injuries he received seven years ago, Cornelius Blankenship, of Gayton, Henrico county, committed suicide on Sunday, and his body was found in the woods near his home yesterday morning. The man had swallowed carbolic acid.

A coroner's inquest was held over the body by Magistrate R. A. Smith. Blankenship, boarded with Willett Allen, who found the body. He is survived by Miss Libbey Blankenship, a daughter, of 413 West Canal Street, and by another daughter living in Baltimore. He was fifty years old.

ENLARGE STATE FAIR GROUNDS

Finance Committee Recommends Purchase of Five Acres for Greater Midway.

BUY OLD BELL FOR ARMORY
New System of Electric Wiring to Be Installed at City Auditorium.

Directors of the Virginia State Fair Association, members of the Chamber of Commerce and a delegation of citizens appeared before the Council Finance Committee last night with a request that the city purchase a tract of five acres for the enlargement of the State Fair Grounds, at a cost of $10,000. After a lengthy debate the committee recommended to the Council that the request be granted, the Fair Association to pay a rental of 4 per cent. of the purchase price.

Legh R. Page and Alfred B. Williams were the spokesmen for the Fair Association. Business Manager Delany appeared for the Chamber of Commerce, each with the support of a large committee of well-known men. The city now owns the Fair Grounds tract, known as the Scott property, roughly about seventy-one acres, purchased some years ago at $500 an acre, with a lease to the Fair Association at 4 per cent. of the purchase price. The Fair Association has expended practically all of its profits in draining and improving the property, which when the city takes it will be worth much more than its cost.

City Owns Large Tract.
When the original purchase was made it was represented by real estate agents that this tract of five acres, which lies between the Fair Grounds and the railroad tracks, could be purchased at the same price and more rapidly installed than the old type of reinforced concrete or brick sewers, being used there almost exclusively. Mr. Bolling said that in each of the cities visited the committee was most noticeably received by the officials in charge, and had personally explained the details of the plans adopted, the engineers in some instances going down into mammoth sewers through which a wagon might be driven. Mr. Bolling said he had gathered many ideas of construction to the curb line on both sides of the street as each sewer gas or water main is put in, whether these house connections are for immediate use or not, in order to prevent the eternal digging up of the streets after the improvement is made.

Would Save Streets.
With one cutting, he said, the city should arrange its sewer gas and water mains, and conduits, if there are to be any, with arms branching out to the curb line for every lot, so that once laid, the surface of the streets would be permanently improved and not be subject to continual digging by the various departments without respect to one another. The committee saw in Philadelphia a modern system of indexing and mapping such street connections, and the city would be able to have a similar system in the ground, which Mr. Bolling thinks might be readily introduced, and would show to any contractor or the owner of any lot just where such connections could be found, and their depth.

The Street Committee has available under the bond issue recently adopted about $800,000 for sewers, both in the old city and in the annexed territory, and the engineer's office is already at work on the profiles and grades at which these are to be laid. Bids for already been invited on several of the minor sections of the undertaking, though plans for the larger main sewers are not yet completed.

Purchase Bell for Armory.
City Electrician Thompson reported to the committee plans for the purchase of the big bell now in the steeple of the Grace Episcopal Church, which was originally erected at a cost of $4,500, but which has for many years been unused. The bell will be placed on the roof of the armory building, the architect having arranged for a clock cupola and electric clock, to be worked in conjunction with the bell, and for the police department to make the sound of the hour and half hours.

The plan to have a bell to strike the hour and half hours over the city, and the idea of Alderman Ellett, who has carried his plan successfully, securing both clock and bell. The bell is said to be an exceptionally large and fine one, with good tone. On account of objection of the neighbors, the church gave up the idea some years ago. The only instance in the past fifteen years on which its voice has been heard was on the last Sunday afternoon, when some boys climbed into the steeple and set the monster to tolling. The startled neighbors, thinking the church was in trouble, while there were those who gave credence to the report that the church tower was haunted.

The appropriation for the purchase of the bell and its installation in the tower of the new armory is $1,500. Mr. Thompson also called the attention of the committee to the condition of the electric wiring at the city hall, which he said, was in violation of the city electric code, and so dangerous that the building might be destroyed by fire. He said he had been interfered with by the metal ceiling recently installed in the hall, and that a complete new system of lighting be introduced, with all wires in tubes. The committee recommended an appropriation of $1,200 for the work.

TWO CANDIDATES FOR NEW OFFICE
Officers Toler and Jordan Take Examination for Police Secretaryship.

The Board of Police Commissioners met yesterday afternoon to examine the candidates for the assistant secretaryship to the Police Department, a new office recently created by the board, owing to the increased work of the detective department. There were only two candidates to appear, Officers Toler and Jordan. The examination was in writing, and the appointment will be based on the percentage made and general fitness.

The secretary will work in the detective department, and will be under the supervision of Captain McMahon. The duties of the position are to keep a record of the work of the police force, to be relieved of much of the work he now has to do, thus enabling him to pay more attention to outside work. The papers will be looked over to-day, and the appointment will probably be announced to-night, when the board will meet in special session.

The extra session has been called to investigate serious charges against Officer Moody and Foot, who were alleged to be implicated in a grave offense. The more serious charges are against Officer Moody, and the case against him is said to be pretty strong. Both men have been suspended pending the investigation.

To Open Bids.
Superintendent of Public Printing, Davis Bottom will open bids at noon to-morrow for printing 1,000 copies of the 10th Virginia Report. The volume will contain about 1,000 pages.

CITY ENGINEER TELLS OF TRIP

Officials Inspected Sewer Work in Several Northern Cities.

NEW TYPES OF CONCRETE
Extensive Sewer Systems Being Installed at Many Points.

City Engineer Bolling was back at his desk yesterday morning, after several days spent in the North inspecting sewer work in Newark, Wilmington and other cities. The results of the trip, in which Mr. Bolling was accompanied by Assistant City Engineer Bolton, who is immediately in charge of sewer work; Chairman W. H. Adams, of the Street Committee, and Messrs. Davis and Bailey, of that committee, will be shown in a formal report to be made by Mr. Bolling to the Street Committee on Wednesday night. The special object of the tour was to inspect new methods of concrete construction in sewer work, and especially to confer with engineers of other cities as to certain patent processes for lock-joint concrete tubes for large sewer mains.

New Methods in Concrete.
According to Mr. Bolling, nearly every large Northern city is now at work on extensive improvements to its sewerage system, Baltimore having in progress a $500,000 extension, which completes a system of sewers the total cost of which will exceed $10,000,000.

Newark, Wilmington and Philadelphia all have large sewer work in progress, the lock-joint concrete system being used in the larger and more rapidly installed than the old type of reinforced concrete or brick sewers, being used there almost exclusively. Mr. Bolling said that in each of the cities visited the committee was most noticeably received by the officials in charge, and had personally explained the details of the plans adopted, the engineers in some instances going down into mammoth sewers through which a wagon might be driven. Mr. Bolling said he had gathered many ideas of construction to the curb line on both sides of the street as each sewer gas or water main is put in, whether these house connections are for immediate use or not, in order to prevent the eternal digging up of the streets after the improvement is made.

Would Save Streets.

MR. TUCKER COMING
Valley Candidate to Stop Over Here on His Way to Second District.

Harry St. George Tucker, one of the candidates for the Democratic nomination for Governor, is expected to reach Richmond early this morning from Nelson county, where he made a speech in the interest of his candidacy on yesterday. Mr. Tucker will probably spend the greater part of the day in his headquarters at Murphy's, leaving here for the Second District on the 4 o'clock Chesapeake and Ohio train. He will spend the rest of the week in the Second District and on the Eastern Shore, returning here to make two speeches to-morrow.

Judge Mann spoke at Warrenton, in Fauquier county, yesterday. He will spend the next few days canvassing in the Eighth Congressional District. Colonel Robert Cattell left last night for Newport News. He will put in the night at the Hotel Richmond, and the Second District, devoting the last few days of the canvass to Richmond city and Henrico county. Colonel Cattell is of opinion that he will be nominated for Attorney-General by a safe majority.

Supervisors Postpone Meeting.
The Henrico County Board of Supervisors postponed their meeting yesterday, owing to the absence of three of the members, who are away. This meeting is scheduled for the purpose of apportioning the year's work and auditing the magistrates' books.

Platform of John A. Curtis

When, through the medium of the press, I announced my candidacy for the House of Delegates, subject to the city Democratic primary, which will be held August 5, 1909, I stated that I would give to the people of Richmond the platform upon which I stand, and in compliance with that promise, and as far as the main issues are concerned, I now declare in favor of the following principles, to wit:

First. A bureau of banking. This institution should be under the control of the Corporation Commission, as contemplated by our Constitution. Several disastrous failures clearly demonstrate that such legislation is not only proper, but necessary.

Second. Liberal appropriations to educate the children of this State. The future of this grand old Commonwealth depends largely upon our public schools, and they should be made as efficient as possible.

Third. Good roads, and, as far as feasible, convict labor for their improvement. Good roads enhance the value of rural properties and add materially to the prosperity of the cities to which they lead. Virginia needs this badly—Richmond will be vastly benefited—and the matter should be not lukewarmly considered, but vigorously championed.

Fourth. Local option as opposed to State-wide prohibition, believing that personal privilege in that issue is best determined by community conditions, and not arbitrarily dominated by remote districts, where entirely different conditions may obtain.

Fifth. The promulgation of such navigation laws as will build up the water-borne commerce of Virginia, and particularly the port of Richmond—an end to which I have labored and for which much might be done to restore to her that phase of prosperity.

Sixth. Liberal pensions for old Confederate soldiers and their widows. These veterans are fast passing away—but few are left—and it should be a pleasant duty to aid them in every way within our means.

Seventh. I favor careful and exhaustive consideration of our oyster laws, which at present are altogether insufficient and unsatisfactory, and which will require the nicest discernment of those familiar with the subject in order that a rational, equitable and conclusive adjustment of same may be reached.

Eighth. I favor a just and equitable tax law.

Ninth. I favor as liberal appropriation for the maintenance and care of the afflicted and helpless as the finances of the State will permit.

In conclusion, I wish to say that for forty-four years I have lived in your midst, during which time I have had the honor on several occasions of representing the people of Richmond in the Legislature. My services have been given them in the City Council as well as in other public situations, and in each position I have zealously endeavored to promote the welfare and prosperity of city and State.

I now ask the support of the voters of Richmond, and promise, should I be elected, to give to the matters herein set forth, and all others which may arise, that rational and careful consideration born of previous legislative experience and familiarity with many of the main issues.

J. A. CURTIS.

JURY BRINGS IN LOST LIBERTY BY MANY INDICTMENTS SEEING FRIENDS

Will Meet Again To-Morrow Investigate About 150 Revenue Cases.

Hugo Haskins, Wanted Since November, 1908, Captured Yesterday on Negro Excursion.

The grand jury yesterday morning brought in fourteen indictments, ranging from housebreaking to murder, and adjourned to meet again to-morrow, when about 150 revenue cases will be taken up. These cases are with reference to merchants and professional men who have not paid their annual licenses to carry on their business or their profession. In the list are several lawyers, who have been practicing without the required license. They may pay up by to-morrow morning, or after that face the grand jury. The usual fine is $500 and costs.

The indictments returned yesterday are as follows: John Adams, for housebreaking; James Bowles, for forgery (two true bills); William Barrett, for grand larceny; W. F. Denny, for forgery; T. A. Hall, for malicious wounding; D. M. Howard, for car-breaking; Jesse Hilton, for selling cocaine; James Nichols, alias W. H. Pollard, alias James Cabell, for murder; J. B. Smith, for housebreaking; Mordecai Harris Taylor, for murder; Florence Thomas, for malicious wounding; James Williams, for malicious wounding.

The docket will be called to-morrow morning and the cases set for trial.

"SHORTY" GREEN MARRIED
Well-Known Legless Peddler of Pencils Falls Prey to Cupid.

"Parson" Mike Macon officiated yesterday morning in the Hustings Court at the wedding of William L. Green, otherwise known as "Shorty," because of his lack of legs, and Lessie L. Jones. Green is a bridge-builder by trade. He was long a familiar figure on Broad Street, between Fourth and Fifth, where, sitting on the sidewalk, he has sold many thousands of pencils and shoestrings. Last week he was actively engaged at the police picnic, where he helped to do the firing under the big steeple.

Green has had other several years, and the marriage was the result of a long and ardent courtship.

Richmond Store: 623 East Broad Street

Since November, 1908, Hugo Haskins, colored, had been a fugitive from justice from Richmond, but he made a fatal mistake yesterday evening when he boarded an excursion steamer running from White City, at Pine Beach, to the Newport News, and fell into the clutches of Officer Belmont and Bernstein, who had been sent down with the excursionists from Richmond.

Haskins is charged with having attacked a woman named Sarah Howard, who afterwards died. Whether she died as a result of the alleged beating, or from natural or other causes is not known. But the warrant against Haskins is one for felony, and the police have been looking for him ever since.

A negro excursion went down yesterday, and among the passengers were White City, and Haskins, it seems, was anxious to see some of his Richmond friends and to get the news from home. He quietly boarded the steamer at White City. But some one tipped the officers, and they nabbed him. He gazed up at the officers with a look of surprise, but he will not have to face the charge of murder. The woman died some time ago, and the police have been looking for him ever since.

NAILED UP HER DOOR
D. Landl Fined $5 for Assaulting and Threatening to Harm Heralde Lee.

Martha Carroll and John Dancy, both colored, were called in the Police Court yesterday morning to answer to the charge of assaulting each other. The case was continued to August 4.

Janie Williams, colored, was sent on to the grand jury on a charge of assaulting Annie Evans.

The case of Napoleon Garrett, colored, charged with killing James Logan, was continued to July 29.

Benny Lee, colored, was charged with being disorderly on a street car Saturday night, was fined $20 and placed under $100 security for sixty days.

Walter Duncan, colored, was fined a total of $25 for refusing to move when ordered and resisting the police officer. James Williams, alias "Battle Axe," colored, charged with reckless driving and running over W. J. Henning, was continued to August 4, and he was bailed in the sum of $100.

D. Landl, white, was fined $5 for assaulting and threatening to do bodily harm to Bernice Lewis and with nailing up her door at 720 East Cary Street, so that she could not enter.

CLAIMED NEW EVIDENCE
Motion of Car Company Attorneys for New Trial Is Overruled.

In the Law and Equity Court yesterday, attorneys for the Virginia D. Lettfield against William Northrop and Henry T. Wickham, receivers of the Virginia Passenger and Power Company, and their successor, the Virginia Railway and Power Company, made a motion to set aside the verdict recently rendered and grant a new trial, on the ground of after discovered evidence. The motion was overruled by Judge Ingram, and leave was given the attorneys for the car company to file bills of exception.

Roy Vaughan Slightly Injured.
Roy Vaughan, the fifteen-year-old white boy, who was injured by L. H. Baker's automobile at Byrd Park Sunday afternoon, was found afterwards to be badly hurt. He was taken to his home, on West Broad Street, by Mr. Baker immediately after the accident. His only injury seemed to be a badly bruised leg.
